

Exercise 3

In Exercise 2, you furthered your design of the SARS database by developing an Entity-Relationship diagram from the list of preliminary fields you completed in Exercise 1.

For this exercise, complete the process of normalization for the tables you initially created. Assess each of your tables to see if it is normalized and you have retained all possible relationships among the tables.

In next week's exercise, we will build a database from your table structure.